February 2018

Mettetal Traffic Jam

Clearly I wasn't the only one who thought last Sunday was a nice day to fly. The balmy (for January) weather brought a lot of pilots out of flying hibernation. By the time I got my Taylorcraft warmed up and ready to go I was number FIVE (!) for takeoff on rwy 36 behind a Wittman Tailwind, two Champs and a Cherokee. After a short reorientation flight (hadn't flown for two months!) I came back to practice takeoffs and landings and practically had to shoehorn my way back into the pattern. At one point there were four or five other planes making circuits around the field at the same time, and everybody played nice with proper radio calls. It was great!

Where Do We Want to Go?

In last month's newsletter I mentioned that one of our goals for 2018 is to think about the type of Chapter we are and whether we want to refocus for the future. The 2017 Chapter survey showed that, true to EAA's roots, we have a strong collective interest in homebuilding. The Board recommended setting up a committee to explore expanding our building to add a much large builder's workshop and possibly an expanded library.

During the January Chapter meeting we invited members to get involved in this effort. Please consider taking part. Al Bosonetto and Dan Jones have offered to help lead, but I think it's important for this to be member-driven, not just a "Board" project. Thanks to the generosity of the late Don Zimmermann, we have the resources to tackle an expansion. We can zero in on what we'd like to do without the burden of fundraising and soliciting donated labor and materials. Let Al or Dan know it you'd like to share your viewpoints and assistance.

February Chapter Meeting – Jets!

You may not be aware that Detroit is home to a museum that specializes in jet warbirds. The World Heritage Air Museum www.worldheritageairmuseum.org rescues military jet aircraft from the 50s, 60s, and 70s and returns them to flight status. We're happy to welcome WHAM president Marty Tibbitts as our featured speaker for the February 15 Chapter meeting. Several of their planes will be at AirVenture this year, so you won't want to miss this preview.

Young Eagles Update

2017 has brought another safe and successful year for the Young Eagle Program at EAA 113. Our Chapter introduced another 172 young people to aviation. It was exciting to have some new pilots and ground support volunteers helping with the events.

We have begun planning for next year by setting dates for four Young Eagle Rallies: April 21st, May 19th, September 22nd and October 20th. These will be open to the public and advertised through various media sources. This will include the EAA partnership with Scholastic Books to promote the Young Eagles program through the new Stan Lee comic book icon “Aviore”. Please mark your calendars now, as we will need many pilots and a considerable number of ground support members to make these events happen.

The continued success of the Young Eagle program is depending on you!
