- INFO By Kendall Pearson shared his recent experience with an air traffic controller while flying - He asked the controller a question regarding his ADSB compliant aircraft device and the air controller asked him what is an ADSB. Kendall was shocked that the particular air controller he was talking to did not know what ADSB meant. After putting a call into a higher up, Kendall was informed that many controllers haven't gotten a lot of training about the ADSB. Kendall asked how would you know if I am ADSB compliant and he was told that they can only see his aircraft's ADSB's blimp on the radar. GOOD INFO TO KNOW!!!
