What's been going on:

Looks like Ed and Bill made it to the August Cooperstown breakfast and posted some photos on the group page if you haven't seen them. Appears to have been a great turn out.

Joel Glickman is busy this aviation week helping out with the weeklong aviation program for kids at the ESAM in Schenectady and giving rides during the class to young aviators. I stopped by there for a minute and the excitement for the program was awesome to see.

Due to lack of available pilots and planes for our August Young Eagles event we had to cancel. Hopefully we can do this sometime soon when there are more pilots available. If anyone knows a Young Eagle that would like to fly, put something out on the group page and we will see if we can get them a ride.

Our nomination committee is busy getting together a slate of officers to take the reins in January 2023. We will have elections in October so if you are interested in a position, please reach out to them. Being on the board is rewarding and has been a way for many of us to give back to the aviation community the support we received when starting out. Sadly, I don't think I will run for another term. I have been on the board 13 years and president for the last 7. I am staying in aviation and definitely a part of EAA 602 but it is just not as high a priority right now as it has been in the past. I haven't flown since March but I am looking forward to some great fall flying. Life changes and I'm sure it will be a bigger part of my life down the road again. I will take a position on the board as is customary of the outgoing president. I'm sure in the future the flame will rekindle, but right now it is someone else's turn to carry the torch.

The nomination committee has been working on a slate of Chapter Officers & Board Members for the October election. We currently have one open board position and always welcome an election with multiply people running for positions. This is a great way to get involved and give back to the aviation community. If you are a current chapter member and would be interested in learning about or running for a position, please reach out to one of the nomination committee members listed below.
