Thank you Har-ber High School students and instructor for inviting EAA 732 members to visit your campus and sharing your love of aviation!

A Message from Chapter 732 President

Well I think everyone has had enough snow and ice for this year. The meal will be some homemade veggie soup and one with some meat yet to be determined. Please bring sides and desserts and join us. We will have some updates on local activities that we know about so far. Also I will pass around some note paper and would like everyone put down what they want the chapter to accomplish in the future. The only rule is if it involves extra money to do it include a fundraising idea. Put on your thinking caps and we will see you at the meeting.

Thanks! Rich

FBOProps

Submitted By Josh Harrell

Hello - My name is Josh Harrell. I am the Founder of FBOProps - a mobile application similar to Yelp, but purpose built for aviators. Our mission is to be a trustworthy aviation guide and provide critical information about FBOs and airports through extensive reviews by pilots and non-pilots alike. We also strive to be the most convenient and easiest to use application for FBO and airport operators to share critical information that will help them stand out.

We are based out of Bentonville, AR and are currently in the process of building our user base across the country. I have started connecting with the Arkansas EAA Chapters and working with the Arkansas Aeronautics Commission about ideas of showcasing Arkansas Aviation to help promote GA and drive economic development across our state.

We are currently in development for the 2nd phase of the mobile application as well as a portal for FBO and Airport Operators (FBOProps Partner Program). Each FBO/Airport will have a dedicated portal with a direct connection to the FBOProps mobile application. All updates such as upcoming events, news and other relevant information is automatically reflected in the mobile app which is trusted by thousands of aviation enthusiasts. This makes it super easy for folks to know what's happening around the country and answer the #1 question all pilots have, which is "Where can we fly today?"

The FBOProps Mobile App is located on the App Stores and is free to download and use. Below are a couple of articles which were recently published by AOPA and FLYING:

FBOProps Wants To Help Pilots Find Memorable Airport Experiences
FBOProps Crowdsources Memorable Aviation Experiences

Please head over to the App Store, search for FBOProps and install. Once you install the app, create and account and please post up reviews / pictures of the cool places you have visited! If you have any questions, please reach out to me directly!

Swing by and see us in the Epic Aircraft Exhibit Hanger C, booth 3152 at Oshkosh!

Fort Rucker Museum Trip Report Submitted By Fred Fallis

I recently helped my grandson and his family relocate from Russellville, AR to Fort Rucker, AL where he will be in training to hopefully become a Black Hawk pilot.

My grandson graduated from AR Tech university in May of 2022, while there he joined the Army ROTC program and decided he wanted to become an U.S. Army Aviator. He received his commission in Sept. of 2022 and was promoted to second lieutenant.

His aviation training will take approximately 1 ½ years and will start with SERE(Survival, Evasion, Resistance, and Escape) training for 3 weeks, ground school classes and finally actual helicopter instruction in a UH-72 Lakota made by American Eurocopter. He hopes to end up being assigned to a Black Hawk unit in Arkansas.

Since my grandson's rental house is on base I was able to get a good tour of the base property especially the U.S. Army Aviation Museum which we visited. This museum has some of the earliest and most recent fixed wing and helicopter models that have used by the U.S. Army over the years. This is definitely an Aviation museum worth visiting if you are in the area. Attached are some pictures of the fixed and rotary wing aircraft housed there.
