Editorial Notes by Rich Prange

What You Wish For

Your wish? Would that be for snow? A few of us aviators like snow, and we finally got it back in February. But for this writer, the "frolic" was over when I had to move the same snow three times just to make space for more new snow.

Remember the great orator Yogi Berra, "It ain't over till it's over"? As these words are being laid down, there is another meteorological event right around the corner. North Central Wisconsin will get another 6"-8" just in time to lose an hour of sleep when we set our clocks back. Ski flyers, have fun.

April Fools

France switched to the Gregorian calendar in 1582 as agreed upon by the Council of Trent. Everybody knows that?

Many French citizens didn't get the email nor did they adjust their New Years parties from April 1 to January 1. Oops.

Must See

Perhaps I fell asleep when this reality show production was aired. Quoting from Disciples of Flight, the Discovery Channel's Flying Wild Alaska was a rare gem among reality shows. Not only was it about aviation, but it featured likeable people doing interesting things.

This eight part series is available at your local library. You will see lots of challenging flight situations, many practical crisis met and resolved, cross cultural issues examined and the nutz-n- boltz of Alaskan air operations management by Jim Tweet and his family. If I were Siskel or Ebert, I would give it a double-thumbs up.

Contract With GSA

The February chapter meeting was held over in potato country - Antigo. Our gracious host baked not only these Chapter 75 cookies but airplane shaped cookies with the correct "N" number for several of the pilots that arrived by air. Cool.

Just a thought, perhaps the Girl Scouts of America might be interested in a license deal to sell these cookies during their annual fund raiser. Their profits, on our cookie, could then be donated to the Young Eagles program. This could also be an incentive for girls to consider aviation in their future. Just a thought.

Virgin Atlantic

Somewhere over Pennsylvania on February 19, the pilot of a Boeing 787 -9 noted that the aircraft was cruising along at 801 mph. This flight intersected with the jet stream and got a 200 mph boost, minus a sonic boom because that speed was over the ground, not true air-speed. Typical cruise speed for that Boeing is 560 mph. The next time you see chapter member Brian Krueger, ask if he has ever had the opportunity to hitch a ride on the jet stream.

Jim Shnowske

Jim will be missed; his friendship, his generosity, and his aviation knowledge.

Chapter 75 members keep your needle in the green.
