Extensive Enhancements Made to Homebuilts Area Ahead of AirVenture 2019

The introduction of a new, more centrally located exhibitor area, a new Homebuilts in Review area, and additional homebuilt parking highlight some of the significant enhancements made to the Homebuilts area ahead of EAA AirVenture Oshkosh 2019.

Formerly known as the North Aircraft Display, the renamed Homebuilt Aircraft Display is now located directly east of the forums buildings, in the space that used to be occupied by the Federal Pavilion. This space will be home to kit manufacturers and related companies exhibiting some of the best and newest in homebuilding offerings.

Just north of the Homebuilt Aircraft Display area is the new Homebuilts in Review area. As part of the extensive changes to the grounds, Eide Road has been straightened so it will function as a thoroughfare through the entire Homebuilts area. Additionally, the space formerly used for vendor exhibition has been converted to serve as additional homebuilt parking.

Sebastien Heintz, president and CEO of Zenith Aircraft Company, said the changes made will help make the entire homebuilding area more visible to AirVenture attendees.

"To me, the big advantage of the revamped Homebuilts area is that it formalizes and consolidates homebuilt aircraft in one specified area, which makes it easier for visitors to find," Sebastien said.

EAA Director of Chapters and Homebuilts Charlie Becker said the changes are designed to create a cohesive campus in the Homebuilts area.

"By shifting the kit manufacturer and vendor area south we've created a hub for homebuilt and tied together forums, vendors, Homebuilts in Review, and all of the other homebuilt aspects at Oshkosh," Charlie said.

"These impactful changes to the grounds will improve the experience for everybody in the Homebuilts area, including add aircraft parking."

Fun and Affordable Flying Returning to AirVenture

For the second year in a row, the Vintage Aircraft Association will be showcasing Fun and Affordable aircraft at EAA AirVenture Oshkosh 2019. Pegged as everyday flyers in the $15,000 to $40,000 price range, the fun and affordable subset of airplanes are perfect machines to fly to local pancake breakfasts, or even to take cross-country to your favorite fly-in.

Most 65- to 90-hp vintage airplanes fit the bill, along with some other vintage staples like the Cessna 170, Piper Pacer, and Stinson 108 — all of which also double as great family airplanes. The relatively low purchase price and operational costs make the group a favorite among their owners.

P-51 Reunion Highlights AirVenture 2019 Salute to WWII Ace Bud Anderson

World War II ace Clarence "Bud" Anderson, a National Aviation Hall of Fame member who was a triple ace during World War II, will be saluted during warbirds activities at EAA AirVenture Oshkosh 2019.

The program will be highlighted by a reunion of North American P-51 Mustangs, the aircraft flown by Anderson in his Old Crow markings during the war. EAA has invited all flying P-51 aircraft to Oshkosh for the event, particularly for a salute to Anderson during the Thursday, July 25, afternoon air show. Those flying demonstrations are part of AirVenture's "Push to Victory" theme for World War II anniversaries, which also encompasses the 75th anniversary of the D-Day landing in Normandy.

"Bud Anderson is well known and lauded for his courage and abilities as a flying ace from World War II, so EAA wants to bring together as many P-51 Mustangs as possible to salute him," said Rick Larsen, EAA's vice president of communities and member programs, who also coordinates AirVenture features and attractions. "His entire aviation career is also one for the record books, deserving of recognition at the World's Greatest Aviation Celebration and another only-in-Oshkosh moment."

P-51 Mustang owners interested in participating in this year's activities can preregister at the Mustangs For Bud website. EAA AirVenture is the world's largest gathering of warbirds with more than 300 aircraft participating in displays and flying activities each year.

Anderson, who earned more than 25 awards during his military career, served with the renowned 357th Fighter Group based in England during World War II and totaled 16 1/4 aerial victories. His unit was credited with more than 600 aerial victories in 15 months — the highest pace of victories during the war. Following the war, Anderson flew and led flight test programs in Ohio and California, and also led fighter squadrons during post-war Korea and in Vietnam. He retired from the U.S. Air Force in 1972 and worked for more than a decade in flight test operations for McDonnell Aircraft.

WINGS Topic of the Quarter – Spring 2019

WINGS Topic of the Quarter – Spring 2019

Spring is in full swing so it's time to think about doing some proficiency training to keep things safe in the flying season ahead. And what better way to do that than to participate in WINGS, the FAA's Pilot Proficiency Program for pilots. Pilots in the WINGS program expand their knowledge by taking online courses or attending seminars/webinars in addition to performing specific flight activities to refresh their flying skills.

- The knowledge topic for spring is Aeronautical Decision Making. You can access the online course at <https://bit.ly/2G0TY0r>. Be sure to log on to your FAASafety.gov account to enroll in the course.
- Spring is also a great time to prepare for the summer flying season with a Takeoffs, Landings and Go-arounds review with your flight instructor. Here's a link to the spring Flight Activity: <https://bit.ly/2L1WceL>.

With the FAASTeam's recently added WINGS Topic of the Quarter (WTOQ) program, it's now even easier to earn your next phase of WINGS. The WTOQ are preselected courses and flight activities that add up to getting a phase of WINGS. In addition to helping you sharpen your flying skills, completing a phase of WINGS also satisfies your flight review requirement, gets you a set of wings to wear on your favorite flying hat, and gives you a chance to win a cash prize!

Please note that you may also continue to select your own flight events and knowledge topics for WINGS according to your own personal preference.

Click <http://bit.ly/GetYourWINGS> to see more on the WTOQ and to get started on your WINGS today!

And be sure to check out this informational video on Soaring with WINGS: <https://www.FAASTeamTV.com/WINGS>.

Burke Lakefront Airport, 1501 North Marginal Road, Cleveland, Ohio, U.S.A. 44114-3726

The International Women's Air & Space Museum is located in the terminal of Burke Lakefront Airport, only seconds from the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum and the Great Lakes Science Center. We welcome you to visit us and discover how Women's Air & Space History is more than Sally Ride and Amelia Earhart.

Our Mission The mission of the International Women's Air & Space Museum is to collect, preserve, and showcase the history and culture of women in all areas of aviation & Aerospace; educate people of the world about their contributions; and inspire future generations by bringing the history to life.

Our History More than 25 years ago the idea of preserving the history of women in aviation was just a dream. Since then, memorabilia and historical artifacts have been collected, preserved and stored. Today this dream is a reality. The International Women's Air & Space Museum, Inc. (IWASM) began as a committee of Ninety-Nines who started saving memorabilia and history of women pilots. The Ninety-Nines is an international organization of women pilots formed in 1929. There were 99 charter members and Amelia Earhart was the first elected president. In 1986 the museum opened in Centerville, Ohio. IWASM was welcomed by the City of Cleveland, Ohio in 1998, where you will find our home at Burke Lakefront Airport. Our exhibits are in the lobby at Burke, as well as the west concourse, and are accessible seven days a week.

Since we are located in a public building, museum admission is free!

The museum office, gift shop and Fay Gillis Wells Research Center are open Monday through Friday, 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. We are closed on most major holidays, with the exception of Labor Day.

The museum is located in the terminal building at Burke Lakefront Airport right on Lake Erie in downtown Cleveland, Ohio. We are located near the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum, as well as the Great Lakes Science Center, the Steamship William G. Mather, and the U.S.S. Cod Submarine Parking Turn left into the first driveway past the U.S.S. Cod Submarine Memorial & Museum. Turn into the municipal parking lot on the right (the International Women's Air & Space Museum does not own this parking lot and therefore is unable to administer parking validations). Parking is a flat rate of $6 (on average).
