President's Column

Hello all!

Unfortunately, we are still in the midst of COVID-19 which limits our ability to meet in person and hold our monthly gatherings. Hopefully this will change and we can begin to meet in the near future.

EAA Headquarters is trying to come up with some new ways to keep our chapters going and to connect with future members. They have created workshop models that last anywhere from one day to multiple days. These workshops that can be done by local chapters come with prepared material sets and all the tools for presentation. There is an upcoming startup webinar on September 24th to familiarize everyone with this program. Perhaps our chapter can find a way to participate and get involved with it.

I have applied to a "tool giveaway" where a chapter can win a Lincoln 200 TIG welder. Each chapter can get an entry for having a Tech Counselor, Flight Advisor, and for members who use the new "Builders Log." Let's hope we will be lucky!

On Saturday, September 5th, we had an invitation from Mark McNabb to join a fly-in and have some good food. It was a nice day, cooler than lately, and less humid. There were several airplanes that flew in including Dennis Long and a friend, flying their Aeroprakts. Thank you for all who contributed to this nice event.

We are also pleased to welcome two new members to the chapter. One is TJ Shouse, a retired Navy mechanic and lifelong EAA member, who wants to be around airplanes and who has offered a helping hand where needed. The second new member is Zach Young, a FEDEX pilot and C-17 instructor. He is building an RV-10 at home and is looking for some input for interiors and other related .

Blue skies,

Gerhard Schubert

CAVOK and Tail Winds,

Note from the Editor

The summer is slowing winding down, but the aviation community is still flying and still building. It's been fun to see the projects going on and we'll be featuring them over the next few months.

If you haven't signed up yet, Dennis Long generously provides a list each week of places to go via Yahoo Groups. Yahoo is a little tricky these days, but the email to subscribe is msff-subscribe@yahogroups.com. You can also check out <https://www.funplacestofly.com/> and subscribe to their newsletter to keep up-to-date of local get-togethers. Be sure to contact them before you head out! You can also check out his Facebook page for updates and his latest Aeroprakt adventures!

We're slowly updating the look of our newsletter and input is always welcome! This is our chapter and our newsletter so we want it to fit our needs. The deadline for content is the first Friday of each month. You can email, text, or message me on Facebook.

Happy Flying!
