Don't Run out of snacks for your passengers

While this isn't normality a great time of year for aviation in general there are usually a few days where the weather opens up a bit to let us get our feet in the air for a bit.

Thankfully on this particular flight I had just enough flight bag snacks to keep our passengers from becoming unruly. Jordan and I were just over Helix Or. when my snacks ran out so we made the only right choice in that situation and called PDT tower inbound for landing.
