What a crazy year! The weather is relentless, with wave after wave of rain storms. I recently drove four hours with the wipers on high the entire time. Not much flying happens on those days. Justin is planning a busy summer of chapter activities that we can all look forward to.

We have lots of Young Eagles to fly, and Flying Start events. Our last Flying Start event was not a complete weather bust, as we did fly two "adult eagles" and rescheduled flights with the rest of the participants. The B-17 will be here June 17th in the evening for a one-day stop at CID. I think EAA likes having the B-17 stop at CID (and we're glad to have them.

Ok gang, tell us about your projects. I know a bunch are in the works, and Clint has recently begun flying his Zenith 750. Write up a few paragraphs and send photos. The newsletter will be better with your projects. We'll also want some chapter visits to your projects.

Airventure 2019 in closing in! This will be the 50th anniversary of Airventure Oshkosh and the 50th anniversary of Apollo, so of course headquarters is making a BIG event for all of us. Are you going? Chapter 33 sends a lot of attendees each year.

Have your read online about the adventures of Iowa's own Doug Rozendaal? He's a flight crew member of the C-47 "That's All Brother" making a trip to England to celebrate the 75th anniversary of D-Day. Follow him on Facebook. It's quite a story!

Welcome to The Lippisch Letter!

This is your Lippisch Letter. The only way to keep it alive is for you to help. What trips your trigger in aviation? Building, Flying, Restoring, Hangar Flying? Is it all about aluminum, steel tube & fabric, composites, wood, avionics, engines, or none of the above? Are you a fixed wing fan, balloon lifter, whirly girl, glider guy, seaplane sailor? Do you teach kids or adults? Tell us about your travels, your adventures, and your tests. Believe it or not, you are all experts in something. Share that vast knowledge, and we will all get smarter.

Show us photos from your flight breakfast adventure, your aircraft project, or you sharing aviation with friends young and old. Let's make The Lippisch Letter a new source of fun!

The Editor's Hangar

It is said that one thing that is constant is change. We initiate some, and some comes at us and we manage it. Justin is doing a great job of setting up activities to help make Chapter 33 a vibrant, active chapter.

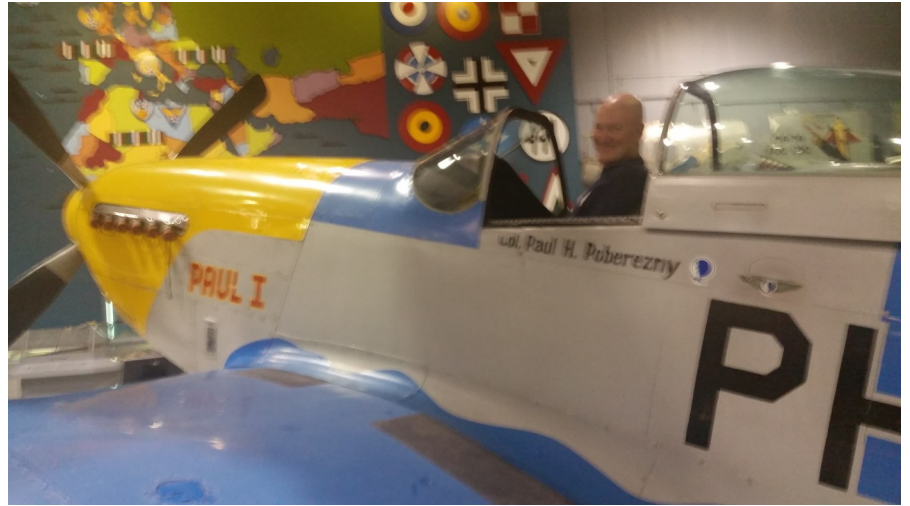

I had planned to play a role in these activities, but alas, change has come to me. A new job is taking me out of the area for a while....possibly a long while. As a result, I need to stand down from writing the newsletter, just as I was getting my newsletter editor legs back under me. I will still be a member of the chapter, but will be much less visible for a while.

The good news for me is it appears I will be probably be flying a lot more (and hopefully wrenching on airplanes a bit less). I look forward to the challenge. More on all that later as I learn more.

PLEASE consider picking up this valuable chapter communication tool. As our late charter Chapter 33 member Marv Hoppenworth said not long before he passed, "You really need the newsletter. It's the glue that keeps us together."

There are so many activities you can participate in as a chapter member, and the Oshkosh chapter office is really stepping up to help chapters improve and take the lead. Think about it:

- Chapter Projects
- Young Eagles
- Flying Start
- Regular Pancake Breakfasts
- Fly-outs

The list goes on and on.

Did you know EAA headquarters has partnered with the Academy of Model Aeronautics (AMA) to bring kids and adults into aviation via radio control? They will be supplying chapters with RC kits to use for projects. Exciting stuff!

It takes all of us to make the chapter a success. If you're already involved, great! If you're not, there are many opportunities. Also, consider bringing a friend to chapter events. They don't have to be pilots, because as you know, there are only two types of people in the world: Pilots, and Future Pilots. Just ask those in the Future Pilot category: "I've always wanted to learn to fly." Getting involved in EAA is a great way to introduce them to aviation.

My first introduction to Chapter 33 was a cookout at Dave Yeoman Senior's farm. (flashback) I remember being 12 years old, on vacation with my parents in Colorado. We had stopped at a trinket shop and I was drawn to a Mechanix Illustrated magazine that had an article about a guy in Toddville, Iowa (wherever that was), who had built his own airplane. When I arrived in Cedar Rapids, I learned about EAA, about Chapter 33, and there was a meeting at a farm in Toddville. It was Dave's place! That was magical to me. I remember riding in a car up and down Dave's runway watching the magic of a Loran tracking our location. Cool stuff. My first trip to Oshkosh was in 1981. It's still magical every time.

So, it's time for me to sign off. For now Having been in the Cedar Rapids area for 40 years, it's hard to walk away, and I won't be truly walking way, but I'm going to be a bit pre-occupied with my new aviation career.

Blue Skies!
- Tim

2019 EAA Chapter 33 Leadership

by Tim Busch

Below is the EAA Chapter 33 organizational leadership list for 2019. We have an open position for Fundraising Chair.

These are not lifetime positions. We always want to work on succession planning for future years so the leadership remains enthusiastic about aviation.

Please consider helping to run this outstanding group. Isn't EAA worth it? Isn't AVIATION worth it?

If you have ideas about things the chapter could be doing, feel free to contact anyone on the list below.

Thank you,
- Tim
