There are lots of extra goodies to go along with the newsletter this month, so I will keep my spiel short. Rosemary has come up with some wonderful ideas for us.

OSHKOSH ON A BUCK: For only $1.00/chance, win a pilot's knee board complete with light for night flying. Get those charts and loose stuff organized. This item was donated by Dave Fiebiger. Your $1.00 makes you eligible for a FREE trip to OSHKOSH during the convention.

ON DISPLAY - LAKE ELMO: 1978 Citabria Champ, 432 TT, King Nav/Com radio with head set & stereo. Red & white, maroon interior, Lycoming 150 HP engine, front & rear seat heaters and SKIS. If you wish further information, contact the PROUD OWNER, AL KUPFERSCHMIDT at 777-9257.

I have to apologize to Jim Olson for not getting his comments on the Lindbergh trip in this issue - will try for next time (gets better with age).

Following are excerpts from the EQ REPORT, a service letter sent to editors:

LOOKING
TO EAA
OSHKOSH
'86

Your EAA HQ staff is planning a number of special programs and activities that we all can look forward to during this summer's EAA convention. One very special series of activities will recognize the contributions of the early pioneers in the home-building movement and the legacy they left for all of us. This tribute coincides with the series, "The Long Road Back", in SPORT AVIATION. * Popular broadcaster Paul Harvey will be back in Oshkosh this year to present his very special (and straight forward) outlook on life -- and airplanes. * As 1986 is the 75th anniversary of Naval Aviation, a strong contingent from the U.S. Navy will attend the convention and EAA members will help celebrate Naval aviation's Diamond anniversary. EAA President, Paul Poberezny, is one of the members of the National Committee planning a series of events which will recall and honor the contributions made to the world of flight by Naval aviators. * The EAA Warbirds of America will be featured during Sunday (August 3rd) afternoon's airshow. * U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater (R - Arizona), who is retiring from public office this year, will also be honored on August 3rd. As you may recall, Senator Goldwater was the National Chairman for the Steering Committee of the Capital Campaign which raised the funds that made the EAA Aviation Center a reality. * Military pilot, test pilot and airshow performer extraordinaire Bob Hoover will be honored on Monday, August 4th. Bob was instrumental in our early rocket development program. * NASA will again be extensively involved with the EAA convention, offering EAA members an excellent opportunity to do some "hangar flying" with some of the best minds in the aerospace industry. * Once again, an outstanding line-up of educational activities will be offered throughout convention week in the form of over 400 forums, seminars and workshops. * There will also be an "aviation showcase" highlighting new homebuilts and other unique aircraft visiting the convention. Watch future issues of SPORT AVIATION for more details on these and other convention
