Chattahoochee Valley EAA Chapter 677
Columbus, Georgia

Est. 1979

Volume 2 Issue 10

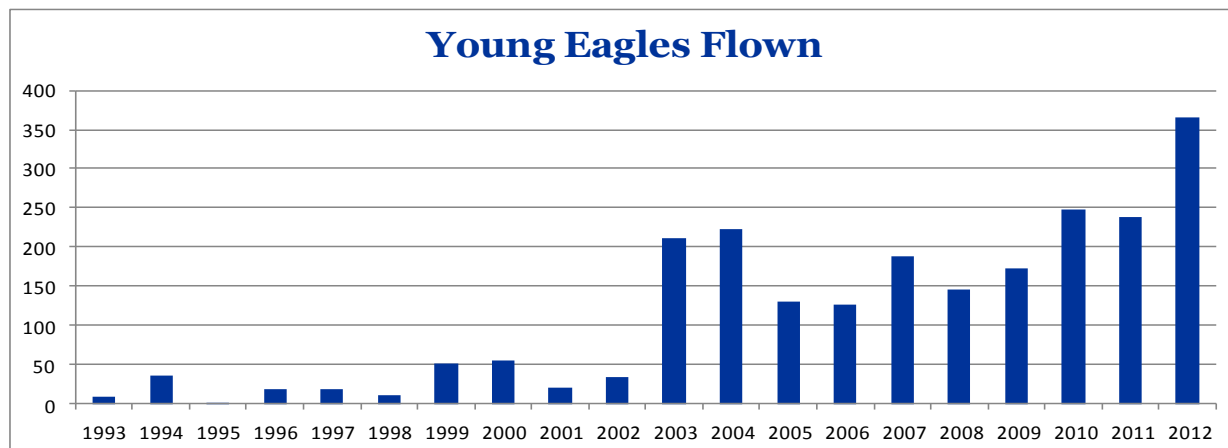

When the October 1992 issue of Sport Aviation arrived in our mailboxes, the Young Eagles Program was only a few months old. In the issue, Young Eagles Coordinator Ed Lachendro reported 1100 young people had been flown, which was quite an achievement early in the program.

Our September Young Eagles Rally was another for the chapter record book, if we kept one (guess this newsletter is the closest to a record book we have). So far this year we have shattered our single event record in February, April, May, June, and September. In June we actually exceeded our previous annual record set in 2010.

Also in September, Debbie Morris and Thomas Moore joined the elite group of Young Eagle Flight Leaders in achieving “10 for 12,” which happens to be yet another record. We now have 11 members that have achieved “10 for 12,” so all of their flights accrue credits for our chapter’s annual scholarship program.

Michelle Kunes, EAA National Young Eagles Program Administrator, prepared a report from the EAA database of our chapter history from the past 20 years (see chart below). Members of our chapter have introduced 2397 Young Eagles to the thrill of flight since the program began in 1992.

It has been an exciting year for our chapter’s Young Eagle Program. We could not have achieved what we have so far without the continuing support of Flightways Columbus, Waffle House, Skyline Columbus and all our volunteers. Thank you to all the pilots, aircraft owners, ground volunteers and Flightways staff that make it happen each month.

Get-there-itis

Our newest grandchild – third grandson, fifth overall – arrived in Tifton more than a week early, and I was assigned the privilege of entertaining his eight-year-old brother while mom and dad recovered and adjusted to the newest addition. Chris Cook volunteered to fly me down, and we planned a crack-o-dawn takeoff so I could get there before the elder of the two grandsons would be able to work up enough momentum to become a distraction.

I didn't expect the fog.

We delayed 90 minutes based on forecast clearing in Tifton; but when I arrived at Chris' hangar, it was still 600' overcast in mist with  $\frac{3}{4}$  mile visibility. Fortunately, "Rocket" Rick Payne showed up and distracted me with a tour of the Carmike Learjet. But after an hour, I had a bad case of "get-there-itis."

I tried to fight it. I tried to hide it. But I was a mess. Even though I've read hundreds, and maybe thousands, of stories about pilots whose lives ended badly because they succumbed to the pressure to be somewhere instead of waiting for the weather to clear, I was itching to get there. I had a grandson, no, TWO grandsons, who needed me and I was diddling around in a multi-million-dollar jet instead of rushing down to help them.

At that moment, I realized the power of "get-there-itis" to treat sound reasoning like South Carolina treated Georgia, and I became very glad I was not the PIC. I could have made a disastrous decision.

The trip down was a delight – easy IFR with Chris and Rocket up front – but I would have struggled to make it VFR with ceilings at 1,500 or so. I will always be grateful to Chris and Rocket for accommodating me and not giving in to an antsy passenger.

As a chapter, we are on the verge of something historic – our 500th Young Eagle. Achieving that would more than double the number of Young Eagle flights we provided last year and would set a milestone for us and the region. We now have 457 official Young Eagle flights and, at our current pace, we could very well break the 500 barrier in October or November, weather permitting.

As noble as that goal is, we must avoid “get-there-itis.” In addition to being recognized nationally for our productive Young Eagles program, EAA 677 has never had an accident during a Young Eagles flight. That is a record even more important than presenting some youngster our 500th Young Eagle certificate.

Let's stay focused on safety, and let the other records come when they may. We'll all be proud of that.

PS: Don't forget Boy Scout Merit Badge Day will be Friday, November 23! If you can be there, we can use you!

Thank you for the experience of flight! We really appreciate all your group does to make this possible for so many young people.
My students were very excited and expressed their desire to fly again.
You guys are AWESOME!

At Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University (ERAU), our mission is to teach the science, practice and business of aviation and aerospace, preparing students for productive careers, and leadership roles around the world. We are the world's leader in aviation and aerospace education providing quality education and research in aviation, aerospace, engineering and related fields leading to associate's, baccalaureate's, master's and doctoral degrees. We are accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACS-COC). Our undergraduate aeronautical science program is the largest in the world. Ninety-five percent of our graduates are either employed or have continued their education within one year of graduation. The major airlines hire more alumni from ERAU than from any other collegiate aviation program, and we are the nation's largest supplier of air traffic controllers with bachelor degree to the FAA. We have trained thousands of men and women in the U.S. armed forces as well as NASA astronauts. ERAU is military friendly and we offer VA benefits to qualified veterans

You can start with as little as four courses as a non-degreed student to "test the waters" and then transfer those credits towards a certificate, associates' or bachelor's degree. Our goal is to give you exactly the education you need, exactly the way you need it without compromising quality. That's why we offer you more ways to take courses and complete those programs.

Classroom Learning – With more than 170 locations across North America, Europe and the Middle East and Asia, traditional classroom learning is available for students all over the world.

Eagle Vision Classroom – a web videoconferencing platform that connects geographically distributed classrooms together into one live, real-time virtual classroom. Students attending class on opposite sides of the world can talk to one another, interact with the same instructor and collaborate on common problems and lessons.

Eagle Vision Home – Access the virtual classroom from your own home computer or laptop with the benefit of real-time interaction with faculty and other students. It is similar to Skype!

Online Learning – Ideal for independent learners, yet still provides opportunities for interaction with your instructor and fellow students. Course materials are available 24/7, so you may access it from anywhere in the world, at any time.

Blended Program – Depending on the program you choose, combine modalities based on your needs.

Thunder in the Valley Update

Sponsorship committee — had their kick-off meeting October 4. The committee created a list of 80 new leads. Committee chair, Don Sharitt, asked the committee to confirm 2012 sponsors for the 2013 show by November 1.

- Major sponsors – received confirmation from Pratt & Whitney and WC Bradley.
- Hotel Sponsors - Country Inn and Suites will donate 20-25 room nights. Hilton Garden Inn and Homewood Suites will donate 35 room nights.
- VIP Sponsors – received confirmation from Waffle House and B. Merrell's
- Media Partners – WTVM-Channel 9, Ledger-Enquirer, Davis Broadcasting, PMB Broadcasting, Stand and Stretch Social Media, Money Mailer and TracSoft.

Working towards a final draft for the consignment contract with MWR Travel and Tickets at Ft. Benning, GA. Military discount tickets will only be sold at Ft. Benning, GA for $8 each.

The Thunder in the Valley Air Show was awarded an advertising grant of $1,000 from the Columbus Convention and Visitors Bureau. The grant is to be used for targeted marketing campaigns 60 miles outside of the Columbus, GA market.

Acts and statics committee — has been meeting bi-weekly to review acts and statics for the upcoming show. The Florida International Air Show contacted Greg Russell, committee chair because their show is the following weekend – March 23 and 24. He has asked that we consider looking into booking the same acts to share some of the inbound and outbound expenses.

- Military Aerial Support – approval for the Thunder in the Valley Air Show has been issued from the Army, Navy and Air Force. The Navy has our request, but is back logged for 2012. They will review it soon and call if more information is needed.
- The Maneuver Center of Excellence Band from Ft. Benning, GA has confirmed participation.
- The Silver Wings Jump Team from Ft. Benning, GA has confirmed participation.
- The P-3 Orion from NAS Jacksonville, FL has placed the Air Show dates on their calendar.

Phaedra Childers, event coordinator, and Don Sharitt, logistics chairperson, will meet with all City department heads Monday, October 15 to discuss equipment, law enforcement, recycle collection and traffic patterns needed for the 2013 air show.
