Coronavirus Uncertainty Forces Cancellation of EAA Chapter 766 Wings and Wheels 2020

The continuing uncertainty surrounding the coronavirus/COVID-19 pandemic has forced organizers of Wings and Wheels 2020, to cancel this year's event at Sheboygan County Municipal Airport in Sheboygan Falls, Wisconsin. The 30th annual Wings and Wheels 2020 event was scheduled to be held on Father's Day, June 21, 2020.

Ultimately, preserving the health and safety of all who would attend, along with the commitments needed for an event to meet EAA Chapter 766 high standards, made cancellation the only option for this year.

You can be assured that EAA Chapter 766 is eagerly looking forward to Wings and Wheels 2021 on Father's Day June 20, 2021.

The 115th Fighter Wing Salute Health Care Workers

Just as the Blue Angels and Thunderbirds have done, Wisconsin Air National Guard pilots in F-16s flew over cities to salute health care workers and first responders on the front lines of the coronavirus pandemic.

Pilots from the 115th Fighter Wing, based in Madison, participated in Operation American Resolve, a national campaign to show appreciation to folks battling COVID-19 and everyone supporting them.

Flight demonstration teams from the Navy and Air Force — the Blue Angels and Thunderbirds — have performed flyovers to thank health care workers throughout the U.S. The Blue Angels flew over Chicago on Tuesday.

The flyover was part of the 115th's regular training so air crews can practice arriving at a location at a precise time. Some of the 115th Fighter Wing pilots flying on Tuesday are married to people working in health care.

Residents and workers were reminded to maintain social distancing while viewing the flyover. Viewers were encouraged to tag @115thFighterWing on Facebook or use the hashtags #AirForceSalutes or #AFFFlyover.

The 115th Fighter Wing has been based at Truax Field in Madison on one side of the Dane County Regional Airport since shortly after World War II. The unit, which flies 18 F-16 Fighting Falcons, learned last month it has been chosen to swap out its planes for the military's newest jet, the F-35 Joint Strike Fighter.

2020 GENERAL AVIATION AWARD HONOREES

CATHERINE ELIZABETH CAVAGNARO of Sewanee, Tennessee has been named the 2020 National Certificated Flight Instructor of the Year. Dr. Cavagnaro is a mathematician by training, earning her B.S. in mathematics at Santa Clara University in 1987, and her Ph.D. in mathematics at the University of Illinois in 1995. She serves as Professor of Mathematics and formerly as Chair of the Mathematics Department at Sewanee: The University of the South. In that capacity, she has developed and implemented courses in such areas as aerodynamics, differential equations and mathematical modeling. Aviation provides a treasure trove of real-world examples for her mathematics courses.

DENNIS ROBERT WOLTER of Cincinnati, Ohio has been named the 2020 Aviation Technician of the Year. Dennis became fascinated with airplanes at a very young age. When he was 11 an uncle gave him his Army Air Corps training manuals. At age 15, Dennis took some five-dollar intro rides in a Cessna 120, and soon started an airplane washing business that supported his training for his private pilot certificate. When he wasn't washing airplanes, Dennis assisted an airport mechanic doing repairs on both metal and fabric airplanes. He spent the 1960s working on airplanes, serving as a line boy, on-call copilot on freight runs, unpaid ferry pilot, avionics installer, interior apprentice, and sheet metal technician.

GARY MICHAEL BROSSETT of Midland, Georgia has been named the 2020 National FAA Safety Team Representative of the Year. Beginning with his initial appointment in 2005 as a Georgia Accident Prevention Counselor and subsequently as a FAAS Team Representative and Leader, Gary has distinguished himself in devoting his time, attention, talent and expertise in managing and mitigating GA accidents, incidents, pilot deviations and runway incursions using the FAAS Team core strategy of training, outreach and education. To quantify Gary's devotion to this mission, in the past five years he has personally hosted more than 84 aviation training events in his area (76% of the total), and more than 208 in the Georgia district (44% of the total).
